INTRODUCTION

This annotated guide to printed resource materials for crime prevention will help to fill a need long recognized by those working in the field of crime prevention. Most of those who work in this area, be they police, non-police professionals, or citizens, find themselves with few guides to available resources for program development. This publication has been designed to provide such a guide by annotating selected printed holdings in crime prevention available from the Ministry of Attorney General, the Ministry of the Solicitor General of Canada, and the Justice Institute of British Columbia. This list has been organized into categories which will help users focus on their particular interest more readily.

The list of materials, and the annotations, were researched and written by Lynn Clarke, formerly of the Research and Evaluation Division, Ministry of Attorney General. Sincere thanks is due to her and also to Janice Vickers who prepared this material for publication.

It is hoped that this bibliography will be a valuable tool in helping those working in or interested in crime prevention to develop and further their knowledge and expertise.

Rowe, W.
A Process Evaluation of a Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Program Youth and Family Services.
Vancouver, B.C., Ministry of Attorney General, Policy Planning Branch, Research and Evaluation Unit, 1981. 168 p.

This report provides the results of an evaluation of the Langley Youth and Family Services program. This program works closely with the R.C.M.P. and provides short-term family counselling for pre-delinquent and first-time delinquent offenders. The report describes the Langley program and also briefly desribes a variety of other approaches to delinquency prevention.

A publication of the Juvenile Crime Prevention Project jointly funded by the B.C. Ministry of Attorney General and the Solicitor General of Canada. Victoria, Ministry of Attorney General, Policy Planning Branch, Special Projects Division, 1982.

Burnaby Youth Services is a youth and family counselling service attached to the Burnaby detachment of the R.C.M.P. and located in Burnaby. Its purpose is to accept referrals of minor delinquent and potentially delinquent youths under fourteen and, through early intervention short-term family counselling, to promote better family relations, improve youth behaviour, and prevent or reduce involvement by the youths in delinquent activities. A description of the program is provided as well as the results of the evaluation.
